MELLMAN'S DREAM

ELECTRIC ROAD PROGRAM
FAILS OF FRUITION.

No Successor to Inherit the Pendleton-Dayton Road Scheme—Heinrich Melman Spent Last Ten Years of His Life Endeavoring to Carry Out His Plans—Faded Blue Print of the Line is All That Remains.

Unless another indefatigable dreamer arrives on the scene to promote the Pendleton-Dayton electric road, that iridescent program must vanish into thin air.

Heinrich Melman, chief promoter of the scheme, who died suddenly in Oakland last week, left the task uncompleted and from present appearance left no successor to his estate of hot air electric plants and the network of electric roads bringing the towns of Umatilla and Walla Walla counties together.

In the editor's desk in the office of the East Oregonian is the faded blue print of a splendid dream of electric roads, touching Adams, Athena, Weston, Helix, Milton, Walla Walla, Dayton, Huntville, Waitsburg and Dixie—the ground plan of one of the greatest schemes ever born in the inland Empire. But the blue print, faded and growing fainter, is all that remains of the scheme, unless the ghost of a water right on the Tucanon might be included in the earthly estate of Melman.

E. T. Wade, who is representative of the Melman interests in this city, has not heard from the promoter for some time before his death, and knows of no further steps having been taken by Melman to complete the electric road plans.

Once the Oregon & Washington Electric Power Company gave promise of doing something. Right of way for an electric line from Pendleton to Dayton was partially secured, franchises on water power at the falls of the Tucanon were clinched, terminal grounds were selected in Pendleton, Walla Walla and Dayton, and all seemed in readiness to begin on the actual work of constructing the road—all except raising the money.

Melman's life has been devoted for the past 10 years to the effort of securing capital in the East to build this road. It was the one dream of his life. He enlisted dozens of solid business men in this county in his plans, who would have been glad to become known in the scheme, had Melman succeeded in raising the funds to carry the project to completion—but as he failed, they do not care to be connected with it.

"A LITTLE OUTCAST."

It Will Be Followed by Haverly's Minstrels.

"A Little Outcast" comes to the Frazer tomorrow evening. This is a play of human interest. Comedy and tragedy is interwoven with the pathos of the life of a little outcast. The play is not new, but each year as it appears its popularity grows.

Thursday night Haverly's minstrels is the bill. There are minstrels and minstrel shows on the road, but there is only one Billy Van and one Haverly's.

"Who's Brown," concluded its engagement at the Frazer last night. A large house witnessed the second performance of this clever comedy.

"A Little Outcast."

In view of his many successes in the past it is not too much to predict an overwhelming triumph for Manager E. J. Carpenter, when he brings his great scenic production, "A Little Outcast" to the Frazer tomorrow night, December 7. It has scored the most conspicuous success of the past two seasons, and is at the top notch of popularity. Much interest has been evinced in "A Little Outcast" for the reason that it is a new departure in the melodramatic field. The best scenic artists in the country were given carte blanche in the matter of stage settings, and the result is magnificent. The play itself is a story of love and adventure, and ranges from Murray Hill to Five Points, the latter locality giving opportunity for the portrayal of a series of vivid incidents the ways of desperate characters who infest that part of New York and who for many years kept the police at bay.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.
